

DAVID MCLAY KIDD, HUNTSMAN SPRINGS GOLF COURSE ARCHITECT NAMED 2008 “GOLF COURSE ARCHITECT OF THE YEAR” BY GOLF MAGAZINE.

Teton Valley, Idaho (January 2, 2009) – Huntsman Springs, a premier golf and residential community in Teton Valley, Idaho, is pleased to announce, course architect David McLay Kidd has been awarded the 2008 “Golf Course Architect of the Year” award by GOLF Magazine.

“Huntsman Springs is proud to be affiliated with such a talented golf course architect and design firm” states CEO David Huntsman. “Mr. Kidd has designed many outstanding courses to date, and we look forward to sharing, what we believe is one of his best, with our members and guests in the near future.”

ABOUT DMK GOLF DESIGN

Since founding DMK Golf Design in 1998, David McLay Kidd has earned a reputation for being heavily involved in all facets of the course design process. His dedication to giving his clients the highest level of creative golf course design has produced many unique golf courses across the globe. With recent projects including The Castle Course in St. Andrews, Scotland, and Tetherow in Bend, Oregon, DMK Golf Design is quickly gaining international notoriety as a premier golf course design firm.

ABOUT HUNTSMAN SPRINGS

Situated on 1,350 acres between the Teton and Big Hole Mountain Ranges, Huntsman Springs offers the perfect combination of natural beauty and rustic elegance. Planned amenities include a richly appointed clubhouse complete with full service salon and first class fitness facilities. In addition to the clubhouse residents can enjoy the 500 acre wildlife refuge which is home to Trumpeter Swans, chukar, pheasant, eagles, hawks, moose, and elk which can all be viewed from nearly two miles of raised boardwalk. Complimenting the tastefully designed homes, are a series of six community parks, five miles of walk and bike paths, stocked trout ponds and a town plaza area.

For more information on Huntsman Springs, please visit our website at www.huntsmansprings.com or call 208.354.9660.